

COPENHAGEN MALMÖ PORT

We are open

Our terminals in both Denmark and Sweden are open despite the current situation with the coronavirus outbreak, with the exception of the cruise terminals in Copenhagen. Denmark's borders are closed to passenger traffic; we cannot therefore receive any cruise passengers on the Danish side until mid-April at the earliest.

Although the other terminals are completely open, we are trying to plan our operations so as to minimise any potential risk of infection, which may mean that the operational flow changes a little – all to ensure we look after our customers, partners and employees.

However, we are finding a great deal of understanding from our customers and partners and for this we would like to thank you very much, because we are all helping to make everything work.
